FATIGUE AND DISTRESS

GENERAL EULLER'S GUARD IN A DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

The French in China—Parisian Potpourri.
The War Measures Among the Great Powers of Europe Discussed—General Foreign News.

KONTI, March 10.—The rear guard of Gen. Sir Rodgers Buller's army has reached here and they presented a sorry sight. The men are completely fatigued and much distressed from the sufferings endured on the route from Gakuli. They, like the detachments that preceded them, report that the march was most tiresome and perilous, being constantly harassed. Many were picked off or wounded by the enemy's sharpshooters, while the terrible heat prostrated scores and made life almost unbearable.

The French in China.
PARIS, March 10.—Further advices from Tonquin state that the losses of the beleaguered French garrison at Thuyquyen were fifty killed and thirty-three wounded before the arrival of succor. Gen. De la Motte's column, which, after two days' fight, succeeded in relieving Thuyquyen, suffered a loss of sixty-six killed, and 133 wounded. The French lost thirty officers in fighting in Thuyquyen.

PARIS, March 10.—Zola's "Germinal" has been issued in book form. The author says the work was dictated by dicty. Zola is not an habitual Bible reader, but the text about loving and chastening must have been in his mind when he wrote it, for a blacker picture of mining life was never penned. "Germinal" is to be followed by a study of artist life. After that Zola will hide himself far from the madding crowd in some far house, to settle down to a novel of pleasant life, forgetful of, or, as the author in his naturalistic creed prefers to call it, "a rustic poet."

Dore and Delacroix are the artistic lions of the week. A melancholy interest attaches to the exhibition of Dore's sketches at the Cercle de la Librairie. They show only too plainly the weakness as well as the strength of the dead artist. The drawings are far superior to the water-color paintings, by which they are represented. They include many of the Ariosto illustrations, the grand composition of Dante and Virgil being carried across the St. Mark and a portrait of one of the many similar portraits of a lady who played a great part in Dore's life. Among the water colors are powerful portraits of Dore's mother and his old nurse, Francois—deserving given the place of honor. Several of his Alpine studies and a fine view of St. Mark, lent by the Comte de Paris, are also exhibited. Next month several hundred of Dore's most important works, now in his studio in the Rue Francois, will be brought to the hammer. It is doubtful whether the De la Croix exhibition, opened recently at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, will satisfy those who for half a century have been raving about his genius. The age is critical, and critics do not spare even Victor Hugo. It is unanimously admitted that "Les Convulsionnaires de Tanguy," "Les Croix a Constantinople," "La Mort de Sardanapale," and a dozen other works on canvas, are superior in color to and finer than the finest efforts of those masters of color, the Oriental carpet workers. But the critics say that the painter did not go to nature for his effects and thought more of the glorious harmonies than truth. "His splendid palette was conventional."

A new Easter mass, by M. Charles Gonod, will be formed with great pomp at St. Eustache, composed by the special desire of Cardinal Guibert. It is most austere in character, and all theatrical effects are excluded. The plan to connect Paris and London with pneumatic tubes has been reported favorably by French engineers and submitted to the government. It is proposed that two pneumatic tubes be laid, forming only one of the Northern railway from Paris to Calais, thence across the channel to Dover, and following the line of the Southern railway to London. Letters could be thus transmitted between the two capitals in one hour. Wagonettes like those now used to transport telegrams from Paris are to be adapted, carrying ten kilograms and capable of carrying five kilograms weight of mail matter. Twenty pneumatic trains are to be started every hour. The cost is estimated to be $7,000,000. The total distance is 475 kilometers.

Intelligent Bandits.
CHICAGO, Sunday, March 10.—A party of twenty-seven bandits under the "big chief" Erasmo Bernal recently captured Quila, a town fourteen leagues from here, and killed the telegraph operator and looted the village. They left in the direction of San Lorenzo. Heavy detachments of troops have been sent in pursuit of the bandits.

Wars and Rumors of Wars.
LONDON, March 10.—The Daily News says that the choice between peace and war rests entirely with Russia. "We cannot," it says, "rescue from our position if we would, and if the worst should come it will be the colonies that will be summoned to the rescue and the summons will not be in vain."

Smells of Bluff.
LONDON, March 10.—The Times attitude is exceedingly pugnacious. It urges upon the government the immediate necessity for British occupation and fortification of Herat, and says that if Russia wishes to fight she has only to say so. England is not only ready, but willing.

Vessels Searched.
SHANGHAI, March 10.—There is much excitement here over the fact that English and American steamers bound for Tientsin have been boarded, their papers examined and cargoes searched by French war vessels.

Ready for Troops.
LONDON, March 10.—Advices from Calcutta state that the railway companies are prepared to transport thousands of troops to Afghanistan at a day's notice.

Tunneling the Simplon.
GENEVA, March 10.—Ten million dollars have been subscribed to expedite the work of boring a tunnel under the simplon mountain for a new railway.

Mexican Musings.
JALISCO, Guadalajara, March 10.—Bandits attacked the train of Pedro A. Gonzalez near Arenal, this state, and stole goods valued at $7,500.
